PUBLISHED BIENNIALY BY

R. L. POLK & CO.,

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH,

Publishers of Gazetteers, City Directories, Maps, Atlases, Etc.

Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1900, by R. L. Polk & Co., in the office of the Librarian of Congress at Washington, D. C.

INTRODUCTORY.

The publishers, in presenting this, the first volume of the UTAH STATE GAZETTEER AND BUSINESS DIRECTORY, do so with the confident assurance that it will be found most complete, and will fill a long-felt want among the business and professional men of this rapidly growing State. It is the first book of the kind ever issued for Utah and the only Gazetteer issued in the United States, containing a list of the Farmers and Land Owners of the State. The publication of a State Gazetteer requires experience, patience, time, an almost endless grist of correspondence, and considerable capital. In the following pages, we have endeavored to fully cover every point in the State and place before the public, a Gazetteer of which our citizens can justly feel proud. It is the outcome of patient toil and painstaking care.

The general features of the work consist of a full descriptive and business directory of each city, town, village, postoffice and railroad station in the State, embodying location, population, nearest shipping point, distance and geographical direction from the county seat, location of nearest bank, and other valuable statistics, all of which will be found arranged in alphabetical order, beginning on page 57 and ending on page 362. Following this is the list of Farmers and Land Owners, arranged by counties, beginning on page 363 and ending on page 500. Following the Farmers' List, will be found the Classified Business Directory (pages 501 to 665). In this section of the work, every line of business and profession is arranged in alphabetical order, with the names of all persons engaged in such business or profession following under each heading. For example, if it be desired to find the names of all the General Merchandise Dealers of the State, refer to the lines of business commencing with letter G, and under the head of General Merchandise will be found the names of all in that business, the post-office addresses being arranged alphabetically under the heading. Attention is called to pages 19 and 20, on which will be found an index, giving number of page on which any desired information can be found. This index should be referred to by all until they become familiar with the different departments of the work.

This Gazetteer is placed in the libraries of the directory offices of all the important cities of the country, where it is frequently consulted by non-residents, persons seeking investments, travelers, etc., and where it serves as a lasting advertisement for the State, its business men and its public and private institutions. To the many friends who have kindly furnished needed information and to the business men of the State who have stood by us so loyally in this publication, we return our hearty thanks, and promise on our part that we will publish the Gazetteer regularly hereafter, with such improvements from time to time as the wants of our patrons may require.

UTAH.

Though the last of the States to enter the Union, Utah was visited by the first trans-Missouri explorers of which we have any record. In 1689 Baron La Hontan gathered from Western Indians a vague account of the Great Salt Lake and told strange stories of the bearded men who dwelt in powerful cities on its shores. About 1776 Father Escalante visited Utah Lake. In 1820 Mr. Miller of the Astor party saw the Salt Lake and in the same year Prevost trapped in its neighborhood. Four years later Jim Bridger came and in 1832 Captain Bonneville. The first really important account of the Utah region, however, was given by John C. Fremont, who with Kit Carson, examined it in 1843.

The account he gave is believed to have influenced its selection by the pioneers of 1847. On July 27th of that year, 143 persons of the religion of Joseph Smith entered the Salt Lake valley and settled upon the site of the present city of Salt Lake.

In this party were three women and two children. The property of this company consisted of 72 wagons, 93 horses, 52 mules, 66 oxen and 19 cows. Five days later another party of two hundred arrived. These bands of immigrants were under the leadership of Brigham Young, to whose genius and commanding ability is in great measure due the rapid settlement which followed their advent. The purpose of the Mormons in removing so far from the borders of civilization was that they might enjoy, without interference, their peculiar religious belief, and build up a State by their own methods, and settle it with their own people.

As soon as the first settlers were certain of their ability to maintain themselves in their new home, they began systematically to induce immigration from among those of their religious belief. Emigration societies were organized, the Perpetual Emigration Fund was established by the Mormon Church, and missionaries were sent to almost every part of the civilized world. The work thus done produced early results and a steady stream of Mormons poured into Utah.

To this systematic work the State is indebted for a great part of its present population, now estimated at 300,000. At the close of 1848 there had arrived in the Territory 2090 people, 649 wagons, 164 horses, 2468 oxen, 993 cows, 358 sheep, 37 hogs and 716 chickens, and the work of redeeming the desert was fairly under way. The Perpetual Emigration Fund was a strong factor in the settlement of the Territory. From this fund advances against their future earnings were made to those unable to bear the expense of the journey to Utah. Immigrants with some money paid it into the fund, and later, from their earnings, made good the difference between their credit and the cost of their journey.

The effect of the work of inducing immigration by these and other methods is well illustrated in the census reports of the United States, which show that less than three years after the arrival of the pioneers the Territory had a population of 11,380. This number had increased, in 1860, to 40,273; in 1870, to 86,786; in 1880, to 143,963, and in 1890, to 207,905. Prior to 1870 practically all of the immigrants were of the Mormon faith, but the mining interest which began actively to develop that year, and which has continued unabated unto this day, and the development of railroad and other enterprises since 1870, are responsible for a considerable portion of the increase in population since that time.

The advantage of systematic over desultory methods is strikingly illustrated in the history of Utah's growth. The prophet Brigham Young, whatever else he was, was a wise and able leader. He was looked upon by his followers as an Angel of Light, and was believed by them to be under Divine guidance. He was especially equipped to command men and dictate measures, and, in the language of a well-known historian, was:

"A practical and far-seeing man; one who, by his will, ability and intuitive knowledge of human nature, was fitted to combat the difficulties that beset each step in his path of life, and to give cohesion to the heterogeneous elements of which his people were composed. * * * From the greatest details connected with the organization of this church (the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints) down to the smallest minutiae connected with the work, he has left upon it the impress of his great mind."

The prophet proceeded with deliberation and ability to bring about the speedy settlement of the lands of Utah. This he did, not only by sending missionaries throughout his own and other lands in search of converts to his faith, but by continually enlarging the circle of settlement. Whenever a new band of converts arrived in Utah, he located them upon desert lands, and charged them with the task of their reclamation. In this way the land was rapidly possessed, and settlement spread out farther and farther from the "Central Stake of Zion." The march of agricultural development is, perhaps best told in the following language of Professor Jones:

"When all the good land was taken up around Salt Lake City, settlements sprung up along the base of the Wasatch Mountains, both north and south. In 1847 one place had been occupied some miles north of Salt Lake City. In 1848 the population streamed northward as far as forty miles, Farmington, Centerville, Bountiful and Ogden being settled, while the tide began to set in southward by the settlement of Mill Creek some ten miles from the city. The next year Brigham Young began his 'missions' by sending out a party to Sanpete Valley, 100 miles south; to Tooele Valley, thirty miles west, and to Provo, in Utah Valley. In 1850 most of the immigrants swarmed into Utah Valley, thirty miles south of Salt Lake City, and founded Alpine, American Fork, Pleasant Grove and Springville. In 1851 the hamlets began to go northward from Ogden. Brigham Young still kept making new 'missions' by the founding of Parowan, Cedar and Paragonah, 150 miles south, along the western base of the Wasatch Mountains, near the great iron and coal deposits, which at that time were unknown. In 1852 the towns had extended as far south as the rim of the Great Basin, a distance of 200 miles or more, while all the places already located expanded by the addition of neighboring towns. From 1853 to 1856 most of the locations were along the Weber, on the east side of the Wasatch, directly east of Salt Lake City, in Cache County, in Northern Utah; along the west side of the Wasatch and in the southern part of the Territory, beyond the rim of the Great Basin at Saint George and vicinity, where our best raisins, nuts, cotton, etc., are raised now. The best of the land having now been taken, it became necessary to go into the colder and more mountainous regions, and to take up the poorer clay lands of the valleys. The population had now (1870) reached 86,786, of which one-third were foreigners. The year 1869 was the year of the completion of the Union Pacific Railroad. A great influx of Eastern people now began. Mines were opened at the same time, and the industrial development of Utah may be said to have started."

Thus was settled Utah during the wagon-train period of her existence. The history of this settlement has been repeating itself ever since.

The State, after many attempts, was admitted to the Union January 4, 1896.

Utah occupies an important position in the trans-Mississippi group of States. It is situated between the parallels of 37 and 42 degrees north latitude, and the meridians of 109 and 114 degrees west of Greenwich. On the same parallels are Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, Southern Illinois, Kentucky, Virginia, Spain, Italy, Greece, Turkey and Corea. The State adjoins Colorado, Nevada, Arizona and Idaho. It is 275 miles in width and 345 miles in length. Its total area is 84,970 square miles; its land area is 82,190 square miles (52,601,600 acres); its water area is 2780 square miles (1,779,200 acres).

Its valleys are elevated from 2700 to 7000 feet above the sea. Some of its mountain peaks reach a height of from 12,000 to 13,500 feet. The Wasatch mountains sweep down its center and the Uintah mountains cross its upper half. It is a region of snow-clad mountains and broad, beautiful valleys. Many streams flow from the mountains and meander through the vales. Its largest body of water is the Great Salt Lake, covering an area of about 2500 square miles. This is a far-famed feature of its topography; but it has a number of fresh-water lakes of considerable size, the largest being Utah Lake, with a surface area of 125 square miles.

Within the lines of the State there exists a remarkable diversity of country, containing many unique features, some of which have given it world-wide fame, such as the Grand Canyon of the Colorado and other wild scenery in the southern portion.

Extending from Idaho to Arizona, southeasterly through the State, is a chain of fertile valleys, some of which are twenty miles wide. These valleys differ in altitude—each growing the products of field and orchard to which the climatic conditions are most favorable. The most northern in this chain is Cache Valley, having an altitude of 4400 feet, and a population of about 18,500. Here are raised the hardier fruits, grains and vegetables. In all of Utah is not found so beautiful a pastoral scene as that presented to the beholder who looks down upon the Cache Valley from the temple top at Logan. The little Mormon farms, some green, some golden, and all dotted with cozy houses and ample barns, lie side by side as regular as the squares on a checker board. Streams, natural and artificial, lined here and there with rows of stately poplars, bound the farms. The whole scene is one of contentment. It covers 600 square miles and, framed with the snowy summits of the Wasatch, is among the prize spectacles of Utah. The southern valley in the chain is the Rio Virgin in Washington county, where the land is exceedingly productive, and where there are twenty or more settlements having a population in the aggregate of from 6000 to 7000. This portion of the State is semi-tropical, and its soil and climate adapt it to production of not only many of the hardier fruits, but of nectarines, almonds, figs, grapes and pomegranates. Flowers bloom in this valley in December and cotton is extensively grown. Outdoor gardening begins there in the latter part of January and snow and frost are almost unknown. Washington county is the Southern California of Utah, and the road now building there will make of St. George, its capital, a famous winter resort. Between these extremes of the chain are situated many valleys under a high state of cultivation.

The eastern half of the State is drained into the Colorado. The mountain ranges usually run north and south and nearly all of them contain zones of precious metals. Probably no other State in the Union has within its borders such a variety of resources. No other State could be so nearly independent and self-supporting. If intercourse with the outside world were totally cut off there are very few of the necessaries or luxuries that could not be produced in abundance within the boundaries of Utah.

It is an empire within itself. This fact will be easily realized by a study of the endless varieties of products it annually yields. Although but half a century has been devoted to its development, the extraordinary scope of its possibilities in mining, agriculture, ranch and range production, and internal commerce, already established, proves beyond question that the State is destined to be one of the greatest commonwealths in the West, and that even now much of what is imported into the State might easily be produced therein should it become necessary.

Almost every variety of climate, which is generally salubrious and agreeable, can be found in Utah. There are valleys for the farmer, the gardener, and the fruit-grower; low mountain land slopes and terraces for the sheep-raiser; mountains for the miner; scenery, hunting, fishing and bathing for the pleasure seeker; hot springs and pure air for the invalid, and plenty of opportunity and occupation for men of business and enterprise.

BOVINE.

Is a small station located in the western part of Box Elder county, on the C. P. R. R., 109 miles from Corinne and 170 from Salt Lake City.

BRIGHAM CITY.

Brigham City, aptly described as "The City of Homes," is beautifully located on the western slope of the Wasatch mountains, twenty miles north of Ogden. It is the county seat of Box Elder county and contains about 3000 inhabitants. The O. S. L.
R. R. runs through the city and the S. P. is but a few miles distant on the west. The residents of Brigham City are nearly all engaged in fruit raising or farming, the former being the principal occupation. The strawberries of this place are especially famous and the supply has very seldom been equal to the demand. All kinds of fruit, however, can be raised at a profit and of fine quality. Immense orchards of peaches and prunes have been planted in recent years and are just beginning to be productive. Raising sugar beets is now receiving considerable attention also, and promises to be a profitable industry. The city has a natural advantage over any other in the State —it is never muddy. Built on an immense wash of gravel from the Box Elder canyon, no matter how hard it may rain, a few hours of sunshine will make the streets practically dry. This peculiarity of the soil does not, however, interfere with irrigation, and it is highly productive. The city has an electric light system, a woolen mill making an excellent quality of cloth and yarn, a creamery, a number of mercantile houses, one drug store, a bank, a tannery, a planing mill, lumber yards and one newspaper, The Box Elder News.

While distinctively a Mormon community, there are two other churches established, the M. E. and Presbyterian, which have neat church buildings.

The public library, in its own cozy building, is deserving of special mention. The city is supplied with pure water from the Box Elder canyon, and has an excellent water system owned by the city, which will be extended and improved this year. The extension of the Bear River canal to this city, which is being strongly agitated at the present time, would double the population and wealth of the city in a very few years.

The city was first settled in 1852 and the pioneers had to contend with many hardships and privations before the soil could be made productive and the environment suitable for civilized living. It is now, with its abundance of trees and foliage, healthful water supply, neat gardens and homes, wide

LOGAN.

This city, noted as the most beautiful in the State, is located on a fine plateau on the eastern side of Cache valley, almost in the center between the northern and southern boundaries of Cache county, on the O S L R R, at an elevation of 4500 feet above sea level, and has a population of over 6000 people. It is surrounded by 22 prosperous cities and villages in the county, which contained more than 18,000 inhabitants when the census of 1890 was taken. Logan is the natural distributing center for these, as well as for a number of prosperous towns in Southern Idaho, which lie within the valley.

Cache county is known as the "Granary of Utah," and well it deserves the title. The harvest of 1898 amounted to nearly 2,000,000 bushels of wheat, 125,000 bushels of oats, 15,000 bushels of barley 20,000 tons of lucern, 200,000 bushels of potatoes, 250,000 bushels of corn, besides thousands of bushels of fruits and tons of hay other than lucern. One creamery alone produced 350,000 pounds of cheese, 150,000 pounds of butter, requiring the milk of 1400 cows, amounting to 7,000,000 pounds, and there are eight creameries. Salt Lake comes to Cache valley to purchase its driving and draft horses. Cache county has 10,000 of them, besides 100,000 sheep and 10,000 hogs, and other agricultural resources too numerous to mention. As we have remarked, Logan is the distributing center of the valley, therefore shares in the general prosperity.

But aside from being the county seat, and the distributing center, Logan has many claims of her own. It is a healthy city. Its air and water are pure, and while citizens of the capital suffer from sweltering heat, its evenings and nights are cool and invigorating. Protection from fire in the main part of town is afforded by a pressure of 140 pounds to the square inch. It has fine, broad shaded streets and tree-embowered homes. Its electric light system covers nearly the entire town, both as to street and private service.

Logan's manufacturing facilities have not yet been exploited to one-tenth part of their capacity. Every day thousands of horse-power runs to waste, but at the same time nowhere in the State is water or electric power so cheap. The same statement may be truthfully made as to the cost of living. The necessities of life are so abundant and there is such sharp competition in the sale of its luxuries that the cost of living is reduced to the minimum Educationally, Logan leads the van. It has two of the foremost institutions of learning in the State. The Agricultural and Brigham Young Colleges, each of which has an annual attendance of 400 students, drawn from Canada, Mexico and all intermediate points. Besides these institutions there is the New Jersey-Presbyterian Academy, which has a thorough high school course. Then, the common, district schools of Logan enjoy such a reputation that people within a radius of 100 miles seek the advantages of their curriculum.

As a business proposition Logan's merchants receive all the credit they wish, because they are always prepared to meet their obligations.

Then, Logan is the center of great mining possibilities, which are being developed as rapidly as the circumstances of their owners will permit.

At present, judged from the possibili-

ON the 24th of July, 1877, about a month prior to his death, Brigham Young conveyed to a board of seven trustees 9,642 acres of land, located south of Logan City, the profits and issues of which were to be used for the support of an institution of learning, to be known as the Brigham Young College. In accordance with the provisions of the Deed of Trust and the Articles of Incorporation, it is the general policy of the institution to promote the higher educational interests of the people, providing a liberal and thorough education that embraces not only mental discipline and physical training, but moral and spiritual culture. It is the constant aim of the college authorities to provide for such work as will prepare the student for success in life, considered from the broadest possible point of view. Thoroughness and efficiency are emphasized in all of the departments.

The College was first opened for the admission of students in September, 1878. Since then it has progressed with steady and healthful growth. Each year has marked an improvement in its facilities and an increase in its strength.

OGDEN.

The county seat of Weber county, is situated near the southern boundary line, at an altitude of 4250 feet. Population 22,000.

When the train steams into Ogden you are midway between the Missouri river and the Golden Gate. Stepping from the cars a series of impressive surprises greet you. The metropolitan magnitude of the Union Depot first enlists your admiration. Over and beyond it to the east the Wasatch mountains chain the vision and, although six miles away, seem almost within arm's reach. The scene is an inspiration that thrills the soul, for surely Deity was in a sublime mood when He sculptured these majestic heights. They are eternally capped in virgin snows, but beneath their chaste mantle are enciente with precious ores. That stupendous crevice in its side is Ogden Canyon, where the handiwork of man makes man marvel. The canyon is the channel of the Ogden river, whose waters have been harnessed and are now serving to engender the greatest electrical motor energy in the West, beside illuminating Ogden City by night and supplying heat to chase away the winter's chill. The influence of this mammoth enterprise is fast redeeming Ogden from the panic's undoing and speeding the working out of its assured future greatness.

Looking westward, that gleaming surface is Great Salt Lake. It is but nine miles distant, and there is vast wealth in its waters in crude salt, that beckons to the manufacturer. Pleasure riots on the beach of the lake and the tonic-laden breezes above and blowing Ogden-ward insure longevity and kiss back health to cheeks from which it has fled. The thickly-sprinkled orchards on all sides, fruit deep, are a source of competence to all and a snug fortune to not a few.

The new electric power plant, with a capacity of 10,000 horse-power, recently completed by appropriating the use of the waters of the Ogden river, is utilized not only for manufacturing purposes, but also for heating, lighting and other practical purposes.

Ogden is the second largest city in Utah and is the greatest railroad center in the State, being the junction point for four important railways, the Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Oregon Short Line and Rio Grande Western Railways, which bind Ogden to the markets of the nation and the world.

Ogden has one of the best public school systems west of the Missouri river, as well as private schools. The Sacred Heart Academy, located on Twenty-fifth Street, is a fine structure and well equipped for properly caring for their pupils. This school is directed by some of the most competent and experienced teachers of the Order of The Holy Cross. The State Industrial School and the School for the Deaf, Dumb and Blind, are also located at Ogden, each having a competent corps of teachers and instructors.

Ogden is well supplied with churches of all denominations, consisting of the Mormon, Episcopal, Catholic, Methodist, Congregational, Baptist, Presbyterian, Christian, Swedish Lutheran and Christian Science. The Catholics are now erecting a new church at a cost of $50,000, which will make, when completed, a magnificent church.

Ogden has a first-class electric street railway system and water works. The supply for the latter is taken from Ogden river in Ogden canyon and is always fresh, clear and cold, direct from the melting snow of the mountains. The average pressure maintained is 125 pounds.

About nine miles north of Ogden are the celebrated Hot Springs, rising out of the base of the Wasatch mountains. The waters possess remedial virtues of the highest order and have effected phenomenal cures.

The five banks in Ogden, in their combined capital stock and surplus, represent over a million of dollars. They consist of the First National Bank, the Utah National Bank, Commercial National Bank, Ogden State Bank and Utah Loan & Trust Co.'s Bank.

The sugar factory, completed over a year ago, is manufacturing an excellent quality of sugar and employing a large force at their factory.

The Deseret and Western Union Telegraph Companies and the Wells, Fargo, Pacific and Denver & Rio Grande Express Companies all have offices and are operating in Ogden.

The present postmaster is Mr. Charles Meighan.

The Fire Department in Ogden is a paid department and is not excelled, if equalled, in the West. They employ fourteen men and their equipment consists of one Champion Chemical Engine, 120 gallons; one Grand Rapids hose wagon, carrying 1000 feet of hose; one Arrow Aerial truck, 75 feet ladder; one Chief's wagon; one La France Fire Engine; one hose wagon in reserve; seven horses. The station is equipped with Hale swinging harness.

The city government consists of a Mayor and ten City Councilmen. The United States and the Second Judicial District Courts are held in Ogden. The Ogden Standard (Republican) is published daily and weekly, and the Utah State Journal, the Utah Home and the Hotel Reporter are published weekly. The Free Public Library is thrown open daily for its patrons and is kept constantly supplied with the latest publications.

Ogden has a number of manufacturing industries and they are rapidly increasing, among some of the most important being the Ogden Woolen Mills, where are made some of the finest woolen blankets used in the West. The Utah Canning Factory, with a capacity of 4000 cases daily, employs about 250 men and women and can tomatoes exclusively. The

PROVO CITY.

The county seat of Utah county, is situated at the junction of the O. S. L. and R. G. W. Rys, 46 miles south of Salt Lake City, about 3 miles from the eastern shore of Utah Lake, in the beautiful and prosperous Utah valley. Provo, called "The Garden City of Utah," was settled in March, 1849, by members of the Mormon church, who made camp on the south side of the Provo river. These pioneers built a fort for protection from the Indians and began at once to cultivate the soil. In the following year, 1850, battles with the Indians were had, and were the only affairs of the kind occurring in the immediate vicinity although the settlers were frequently called upon to assist their neighbors against the hostile Indians.

Two derivations of the name Provo are given. One is that it was the name of a favorite horse of General Fremont which died near this point; another that it was the name of a French trapper and hunter who pursued his avocation in this section. The original spelling of the name in either case was Proveau.

In 1851 a city was laid out and settlers began to move out from the fort. In April, 1851, the City of Provo was organized and officers elected.

Manufacturing in a small way began early and a small carding machine built and operated by Shadrach Holdaway and Alanson Morton in 1851 may be said to be the beginning of the woolen manufacturing industry, now carried on so extensively by the Provo Woolen Mills, the largest woolen factory in the West. This institution is turning out a superior class of goods and finds a ready market for its productions in Utah and in different cities and States of the United States. These mills have been awarded numerous medals and diplomas for the excellence of the goods turned out, capturing at the California Midwinter Fair the first prize. There are about 200 people given employment at these mills, and improvements in machinery and new buildings are constantly being added.

Provo at the present time has a population of about 7500, with churches, schools, banks, factories, mercantile houses engaged in every line of business and all the professions and trades represented.

In schools Provo has the Brigham Young Academy, one of the leading educational institutions in the intermountain region, with an annual average attendance of about 800 pupils. The academy has recently completed a large addition to its building at a cost of $20,000, which will nearly double its capacity for room in which to teach the young idea.

The Proctor Academy is here located and furnishes an excellent place for instruction.

The public school system as conducted in the many beautiful and roomy school buildings is not excelled anywhere in the Western States and the school population of Provo is "pretty considerable."

The Utah Stake Tabernacle, one of the finest buildings in the State devoted to public worship, is here located and other denominations are represented as follows: Congregational, Baptist Methodist, Seventh Day Adventist, Christian Scientist, etc.

One daily and one semi-weekly newspaper are published and have a large general circulation in the city and State.

Two banks, one with capital of $10,000, the other with capital of $25,000, and one savings bank, capitalized at $10,000, are doing a very large business.

In the beautiful canyon, located about 10 miles from the city, the Provo Canyon Power plant transmits its electric power to the mining camps of Mercur and Eureka. The plant, which cost in the neighborhood of $1,500,000, has a capacity of 5000 horse-power and it is the intention of the promoters to increase the power capacity in the near future.

Climatic conditions and the soil of Provo and vicinity enable the farmer and fruit grower to produce some of the largest crops and the most delicious fruits known. The finest varieties of apples, peaches, apricots, pears, plums, grapes, prunes and smaller fruits attain to the greatest perfection in size and flavor.

The raising of sheep, cattle and horses is extensively engaged in by the people.

The Utah Lake, a beautiful sheet of fresh water 10x30 miles, teems with trout, bass and others of the finny tribe, besides being a favorite resort for the hunter of ducks, geese, etc., which are to be found in vast numbers during the hunting season.

The State Insane Asylum, costing over $400,000, is here located. Over 200 patients are being treated and the building has capacity for about twice that number.

The city has an excellent waterworks system, costing nearly $150,000, the water being brought from the Provo river at the mouth of Provo canyon.

A first-class creamery, two roller mills, two planing mills, a fine stone-sawing plant and several other manufacturing industries are located here.

The assessed valuation of the city is nearly $2,500,000. Exp., Wells, Fargo & Co. and Pacific. Tel., W. U. and Deseret. John C. Graham, postmaster.

SALT LAKE CITY.

Population 80,000.

The capital of the State and county seat of Salt Lake county, built upon the site of the first settlement in Utah, was founded by a handful of pioneers on the 27th day of July, 1847, is one of the historic and most beautiful cities of the United States. Its fame has extended throughout the civilized world. Writers, the most eminent and the most obscure, have discussed it, and the literature extant concerning it would make a fair-sized library. Theologians have told their congregations, in ponderous sentences, of the peculiar creed of its inhabitants, and described the great buildings within it where the religious belief of the followers of Joseph Smith is proclaimed. Architects have discussed its unique architecture. Morbid sight-seers, with lively imaginations, have told extraordinary tales of its inhabitants. Artists with pen and brush, kodaks and cameras, have pictured its daily life, and mirrored on canvas and glass and film the scenes of exquisite beauty presented on its streets and in its environments. Unhappily for the credit of the city, many of those who visited it and wrote of it during the first forty years of its existence, were so engrossed with the study of the Mormons and of Mormonism, and so filled with curious interest in the daily life of its people and in the great structures wherein they worshiped, that they had no eyes for its sturdy vigor, and no ears for accounts of its mineral and other resources. To these people Salt Lake was but a dime museum of Mormon curiosities. The tales they told were enough to condemn any town, and the injury they worked to Salt Lake is incalculable. Like the average tourist, their first great desire was to see "a real live Mormon," and ask him how many wives he had. When that hunger was appeased they visited the great Temple, the homes and schoolhouse of Brigham Young, the Eagle Gate, listened to the dropping of the pin in the Tabernacle, and then they hurried away, certain that they knew all about Salt Lake City. But later, thoughtful and observant visitors came to the city, and intelligently investigated its advantages. These visitors were impressed with the supremacy of its geographical location, with the large measure of its daily business, with the enterprise and progressiveness of its inhabitants, with the wonderful resources around it, and with the certainty of its future greatness, and wrote and published truthful accounts of the city. To these accounts Salt Lake City is indebted for much of the good reputation it now enjoys as a place to live and do business.

Salt Lake City is about midway between San Francisco and Denver, and is beautifully situated. The majestic peaks of the Wasatch rise above its head, and the lovely and fertile valley of the Great Salt Lake flows away in vernal billows from its feet. As a commercial and railroad point, Salt Lake City has no competitor in the intermountain country. Indeed, it may be said in every sense to be the center of that great region. It is the headquarters of many great mining companies, and is the location of some of the largest smelters and mineral mills in the West. From it is distributed the products of the farmer and manufacturer, and its wholesale houses send their goods for hundreds of miles in every direction. It is, and will always be, the chief city between Denver and San Francisco. That its future growth will be rapid and substantial no one who reaches an understanding of its resources and attractions will deny. No mining, agricultural or industrial development can occur within 500 miles of it in any direction without favorably affecting the city's growth. No transcontinental railroad to be built through the center of the republic can avoid it. To it must inevitably come, either directly or indirectly, a vast tribute of trade from Utah and the surrounding States. Money paid out for labor in the thousands of mines within its immediate mineral domain will always flow in a steady stream to Salt Lake City. These are its general advantages. Considered in detail, the city will compare favorably with any other of its size in the country. Its founders laid it out upon a generous plan, making the blocks ten acres in size, the lots 165 feet front by 330 feet in depth, and the streets 132 feet wide. No change has since occurred in the lines originally drawn except that the lots have been divided into smaller parcels, but all that human effort could do to make the city beautiful has been done. There are trees and lawns everywhere within its limits, and the city is threaded with over 100 miles of shaded brook-lined avenues. In the business portion the streets are paved with Utah asphaltum, and substantial cement walks lead through the residence portions. In 1890 the city entered upon a season of municipal improvements which included the construction of everything necessary to public health and comfort, and these improvements are still going on. Since their commencement a great system of sewers, with a gravity outlet five miles long, has been placed in operation, miles of sidewalks and street paving have been put down, a great public building, which cost over a million dollars and which is classed among the finest public structures in the West, has been constructed and completed, and many other similar advantages have been secured.

It is in telephone connection with all Utah and the principal points in Idaho, Wyoming and Montana, and will soon be on speaking terms with the Pacific Coast cities and Colorado. Salt Lake's population has doubled one and one-half times since 1888, and its building operations since that time represent an enormous outlay. The city now boasts of many fine business blocks, and these blocks, it is gratifying to note, are all occupied and on a paying basis. Salt Lake's growth is not dependent entirely upon the East, although, of course, it receives every year an influx of population from distant States where either business or climatic conditions are unfavorable. Being in the center of a vast region wherein large operations are conducted in mining, stock-growing and other enterprises, and having a perfect climate, the Great Salt Lake, hot thermal springs, the lowest death rate of any city in the Nation, good public schools, fine social conditions, beauty of location and environment, and many other essentials of a perfect home place, it naturally attracts to it wealthy people who desire to give their families these advantages, and who can carry on their enterprises as successfully from Salt Lake City as from the place of their location. So it is that while adverse national financial conditions have interfered with emigration to the West during the past few years, Salt Lake City has been steadily growing. It is essentially the home city of the inter-mountain country. Every miner who realizes his hopes invests his money here, and the city is filled with stately homes and business buildings which have been "dug" from the mines of Utah and adjoining States. As a place for permanent homes no city in the West can compare with Salt Lake. The advantages it offers are legion. Property values are not exorbitant, the rate of taxation is moderate, almost every creed in Christendom has its church here, a perfect system of electric rapid transit permeates every portion of the city, the people are broad-minded, progressive and sociable, the laws are well executed, crime is not common, and pauperism does not exist among those who are willing to work.

What the limits of Salt Lake's future are cannot be guessed, but that it will grow and expand with the certain growth and expansion of the great country around it can not be questioned.

While this account is being written a railroad (The Utah & Pacific) is building westward to Los Angeles, which will open virgin mineral fields in Southern Utah and Nevada. "The Burlington" and "Northwestern," now operating into Wyoming, are headed towards Salt Lake City and their early coming is confidently predicted. These roads will be to Salt Lake what the wonderful lamp was to Alladin.

Salt Lake City is the headquarters of The Oregon Short Line Railroad, The Rio Grande Western, The Salt Lake & Los Angeles and Salt Lake &

Ogden Railways. The general offices of all these companies are located here as is also the general offices of The Utah & Pacific Railroad. Work on a new modern and up to date Union Depot will soon begin and when it is completed all these lines will use it for their Salt Lake City terminal. Ezra Thompson Mayor. A. L. Thomas Postmaster.

LOOSE LEAF SYSTEMS

FOR EVERY CONCEIVABLE PURPOSE

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

CHICAGO.

LOOSE LEAF ..SYSTEMS..

In the Perpetual Ledger we offer the greatest loose leaf system yet devised. The experimental stages are over. Its practicability and adaptibility have been proven beyond a doubt. Leaves can be instantly inserted or removed. All that is necessary is to insert the key, turn the lock and the covers will spring apart; lay the book over on its back, spread the leaves apart at any desired point and slip the leaf over or off of the posts, as shown in the illustration. The leaves are slit for this purpose.

CURRENT LEDGER—EXPANDED.

Showing ease with which a leaf may be inserted or removed from any portion of the binder without disturbing the balance.

It will be seen from this that there are no parts to be removed before this operation can be performed, and all that is necessary after the desired changes have been made is to close the covers and force them together. The automatic lock does the rest.

Our Perpetual Ledger can now be found in the humblest corner store, as well as in the offices of the largest banks, corporations and mercantile houses.

THE AMERICAN EAGLE

Is the only newspaper in the county outside of Salt Lake City proper and is published at Murray, the manufacturing and trade center of Great Salt Lake Valley. It is an 8-page (as large as the dailies), 7-column, all "home print," one of the very best advertising mediums in the State and covers entirely the local field—a claim based upon the experience of advertisers. Advertising rates and sample copies free on application.

Scientific Farming

IS MADE

a Reality, by Irrigation.

The element of chance and helpless dependence upon rain for moisture are done away with.

The advantage of farming by irrigation over the old hap-hazard method is shown by the fact that 40 acres of properly tilled irrigated land will yield as good results as 80 acres where rain is wholly relied upon.
